SCHOOL REPORT.

Another school year has passed and agreeably to the requirements of the law the School Board make their annual report of the condition and progress of our schools. One member of our School Board, M. Abby Smith, retired early in the school year as her health would not admit of her taking an active part in the school work.

The two remaining members have performed the labor to the best of their ability. The schools may not have been visited as many times each term as they were the preceding year, yet a sufficient number of visits were made to assure us of good thorough work by nearly all of our teachers.

SCHOOLS.

The public school is the source of all our social, moral and political success. In them the great mass of humanity receive their education; those that have the benefit of our higher institutions are but few among the many. Are they not worthy then of careful attention? It is an admitted fact by those best qualified to judge that the best results attend the larger schools.

The same teacher does better work with from twenty to twenty-five pupils than with less, from the natural influence of numbers and the increased spirit of emulation among the scholars; yet we cannot avoid having some small schools. Eleven schools of nine weeks were held last spring and twelve schools of thirteen in the fall and were so arranged that each scholar in town could attend school twenty-two weeks during the year, except at Whiteface where the lack of interest led us to close the fall school at the end of the twelfth week.

The carrying of four scholars from Birch Intervale to Whiteface school (a distance of five miles) saves expense without disadvantage to the scholars in the long days of May and June, but we deemed it inadvisable in October and November when they would be obliged to travel after dark so we gave them a fall school of thirteen weeks.

The advocates of the old district system seem to think that this town would be better off with its twenty schools as formally. They do not seem to think that the large decrease in population in the back districts would in any way affect their value or that twenty-two weeks now means any more than an average of twelve weeks under the old system with equally good teachers.

TEACHERS.

The amount of good that a wide-a-wake thorough teacher can accomplish cannot be overestimated. The teachers work, mind-training and character-building, calls for experienced laborers. While the most of our teachers would be greatly benefited by a course of normal training, yet the best kind of teachers are born, not made. Nature has fitted them for these responsible duties and given them tact and skill such as art can never supply. The brainy, finely educated person often fails where teachers without special training succeed. The school room is the only true test by which we can judge of her fitness. Where a teacher succeeds there she should be retained to prevent a loss of time and the uncertainty of success elsewhere. All but two were experienced teachers. Six remained in the same school for the year.

PARENTS.

We are pleased to notice the interest taken in our schools by some of the parents. If more attention were given by them, both to visiting the schools and to sending their children to school every day, far better results would be obtained. What teacher can successfully teach a pupil who is absent on an average of two days each week? Some of our schools that were provided with the best teachers in town show the daily attendance to be less than 90 per cent. Irregularity of attendance is one of the greatest obstacles, for which the parents are largely at fault. The four schools that held public examination at the close of both terms to which the parents were invited made a move in the right direction which we hope will be widely patterned after in time to come. The child loves to show his parents his accomplishments and is stimulated by their presence.

TEXT-BOOKS.

The one hundred dollars raised by the town with the balance in the hands of your Book Agent was hardly sufficient to purchase all the needed supplies so we used ten per cent. of the Literary Fund, as the report will show. Thirty Worcester's Academic Dictionaries and five Complete School Charts have been added to our list. The dictionary is for the use of the larger scholars for reference. The charts embrace nine different subjects as follows: 5 charts of Reading, 2 of Elementary Sounds, 3 of Penmanship, 2 of Drawing, 3 of Arithmetic, 3 of U. S. History, 9 of Geography, 4 of U. S. Civil Government, and 5 of Physiology and Hygiene. These charts serve to place before the children the most important facts connected with their studies; teaching the eye as well as the ear and instructing the whole class at the same time. These charts fill a much needed want in our ungraded schools and cannot be too highly estimated.

Our books for the most part have been well cared for by our teachers and but a very few have been destroyed by rough usage or carelessness. With the burden resting on the taxpayer the child of the poor has books and supplies equally good as the rich.

CONDITION OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

A retrospective review of the work accomplished by way of repairs on school buildings the past year leads to the opinion that many years will roll around before the school houses can be reported in good condition if one hundred dollars a year is to do the work. Some of the most urgent repairs have been made as follows: The Ettridge school-house has undergone a thorough repair inside, new windows taking the place of the old broken ones, the seats, doors and desks have been repaired and the walls newly plastered. All of the black-boards have been painted and the plastering on all of the school houses has been repaired. The Chick school-house has received two good coats of lead and oil paint while the house at the Great Rock is to have a like treatment the first favorable weather we have.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Board of Education in reviewing the school work for the year 1891, honestly believe that a year of faithful, patient work on the part of our teachers has resulted happily, and, in our opinion an excellent year's work has been accomplished. We do not claim the best possible results have been achieved, neither do we claim that there is no room for improvement in the future. The small appropriations, the sparse population, the indifference of parents, the poor school buildings, and the small stock of school appliances all combine to render them far from perfect. Yet we hope little by little, year by year, to advance and elevate their standard.
